

PRIVACY POLICY

When you use our services, you trust us with your information. Our privacy policy help you to understand what data we collect, why we collect it, and what we do with it. The following outlines our privacy policy.

Personal information is data that can be used to identify or contact a single person. we will identify the purposes for which information is being collected.

When you create personal ID and will apply for buying a product, or download the free marketing e-book, we may collect a variety of information, including your name, mailing address, phone number, email address, contact preferences, and credit card information.

We assure you that we will only retain the personal information as long as required for the fulfillment of those purposes. We also assure you that we only collect your personal information by lawful and fair means and, where appropriate, with the knowledge or consent of the individual concerned.

The personal information which we collect should be relevant to the purpose for which it is to be taken, as well as to the extent required for the purposes should be accurate, complete and up-to-date.

Your personal information collected by us will protected by reasonable security safeguards against any loss or theft along with any unauthorized uses, disclosure, copying and modification.

We will make readily available to customers information about our policies and practices relating to the management of personal information.

Our data and information is sourced from public information, aggregated, and sorted for your convenience. Examples of these would include but are not limited to white pages, county records, state records, and similar sources.

We may update our Privacy Policy from time to time. When we will change the Privacy Policy in a material way, a notice will be published on our website along with the updated Privacy Policy.